Post-doctoral fellow position

The Wakarchuk lab at Ryerson University and PlantForm Corporation are jointly seeking a post-doctoral fellow to start in January 2018.

The position is funded by a GlycoNet Collaborative Team Grant for up to two years. The project will focus on the production of recombinant glycosyltransferases in bacterial expression systems and their application in an in vitro post-production glycosylation process for plant-made therapeutics proteins.

The ideal candidate would have experience working with glycosyltransferases, bacterial expression systems and plant science or plant molecular pharming.

Interested candidates should email their CV to Dr. Warren Wakarchuk at wwakarchuk@ryerson.ca.
